

Spencer Brook, Concord, MA

A tall canopy of trees shades the entry courtyard of this new farmhouse in Concord. Both the first floor and second floor spaces capitalize on the tranquil pastoral views of the near and distant meadows. The installation of a geothermal heating and cooling system coupled with a tight envelope and extensive south-facing glazing all enhance the home's careful harmony with the environment.

Builder: The Hartwright Company
Landscape Designer: Thomas Wirth Associates

